

To the proprietors of "Ultimatum Theme".

It's recently come to our attention that several items you purchased including Visual Composer, Revolution Slider and Ultimate Addons for Visual Composer, may not have used the proper license for its application in your product, which falls into the category of a "build-it-yourself" WordPress solution.

It seems like an honest mistake and we're here to help! It looks like the item was purchased under the Extended License when in fact, usage in this manner requires multiple standard licences for each end-user, along with an established agreement with the owners of each of these products.

Please take a look at the Licence Terms (specifically section 9) quoted below for reference:

“You can’t use the Item in any application allowing an end user to customise a digital or physical product to their specific needs, such as an “on demand”, “made to order” or “build it yourself” application. You can use the Item in this way only if you purchase a separate license for each final product incorporating the Item that is created using the application.”

You may find the following resources useful in illustrating the issue further:

<http://themeforest.net/licenses/faq#license-transferable-a>
and
<http://themeforest.net/licenses/faq#small-element-stock-a>

We'd like to help you migrate to the proper license agreement to ensure that both you and your work are safely covered for your needs and end use. If you are able to comply with the authors of these products around negotiating a new agreement, we'll have your funds returned for the original purchase.

Thank you very much for your attention and cooperation here, and we're happy to answer any questions you may have!

Kind Regards

The Envato team